LITTLE THEATER OF VIRGINIA BEACH
JANUARY 2008

World Class Entertainment at the Beach

Send Me No Flowers

Performance: January 11 – February 3, 2008

Friday and Saturday 8 p.m.
Sundays 3 p.m.

By Norman Barasch & Carroll Moore

Directed by Sara Bergandi Quilenderino

"How could you have an affair!?!?" Joel King and Heidi Kaiktsian shout at Travis McHenry in the hilarious comedy "Send Me No Flowers".

Have you ever been convinced that everything is out to get you? Well not quite like this. George Kimball is an extreme hypochondriac and he is armed with a dictionary of medical terms. Constantly hyped up that every little pain means certain catastrophe, his doctor has become a close friend. During one of his many check-ups, George overhears Doctor Morrissey on the phone talking about a dying patient. Automatically, George assumes that he is the patient that is about to die and soon begins to plan his final days. One of these plans is to find a suitable second husband for his wife Judy. The possible suspect just happens to be her old college flame, Bert. While George is pushing Judy on Bert, she begins to believe there is something really wrong. She thinks he is having an affair. Mixed in are wild fantasy scenes, an aggressive cemetery plot salesman, and a slightly dramatic best friend and neighbor. This show is sure to keep you laughing. After all laughter is the best medicine.

DESIRE UNDER THE ELMS

By Eugene O'Neil

Religious zealot and tyrant Ephraim Cabot rules over a piece of prized farm land he received from his late wife. The rightful owner is son Eben, a calm, sensitive soul whom Ephraim browbeats endlessly. Eben's claim on the land is taken from him after Ephraim takes a new bride, Abbie. Abbie has plans of her own regarding the land and butts heads with the angry Eben. Little do the two realize that from hatred can spring love....one that is forbidden, with consequences of its own.

Auditions: January 14 & 15, 2008

Performance: March 14 – April 6, 2008

Why Do I Do Theatre?

Introducing Joan Patterson, our Volunteer Coordinator

When asking our Volunteer Coordinator, Joan Patterson “Why are you involved in the theatre? Her immediate response is “Because it is fun!” Though sometimes it is a lot of work, she enjoys working with wonderful and dedicated people. Joan sees our Virginia Beach theatre as top quality with great entertaining plays. She believes strongly that “It is important that we keep the vision alive.” Producing six shows a year with approximately 50 to 60 people involved at some level for each production, our volunteers become vital to the success of the theatre. As volunteer coordinator, Joan maintains a data base of volunteer names, their area of interest along with an email database. Joan says she tries “to contact each person who responds to the website with an email greeting and I alert them to upcoming auditions.” She arranges ushers for all shows and coordinates the calendar for board members who are required to run the box office and act as house manager once for each production. Currently Joan is organizing a newcomer orientation party for new people. The next party will be in late January in connection with one of the performances of the current show “Send Me No Flowers.” Please contact me @ contact@ltvb.com if you would like to volunteer at the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach.

“The Heart of Our Theatre”

Without Volunteers there is no Theatre...

Kudos-Merci-Kudos-Danke-Kudos-Gracias-Kudos

- Kudos to the many volunteers who work on each show. LTVB could not accomplish all that we do without our volunteers help. Hats off to all of you!
- Danke Bob Denev for your many hours of helping with the “Send Me No Flowers” set and the many other sets you help with.
- Merci! Kathleen Davis for the large vanity mirror given to our theatre.
